

Auto Service Professional

IN OUR PREMIER ISSUE:

Get the most from your multimeters

Hands-on with GM LS roller
lifters

Electronic parking brake tech

We'd like to help if your shop has been hit by a natural disaster such as flooding.

We're here for you

Auto Service Professional magazine and manufacturers offer a helping hand to shops in need

Auto Service Professional magazine, in conjunction with its advertisers, is offering a "helping hand" to shops that have recently fallen on hard times, as a result of personal setbacks, shop damage by a storm or other natural disaster, etc. This would include any automotive repair facility with three or more technicians that operates as an independent general repair facility, tire dealer service facility or fleet repair shop.

This aid would be in the form of specific products (kindly donated by the magazine's advertising manufacturers), which might include replacement parts, consumables and/or various types of shop equipment.

"The first manufacturer to provide product for this worthwhile cause is Redline Detection, the makers of the world's best-selling diagnostic leak detector — the Smoke Pro Total-Tech.

The Smoke Pro promises to be your shop's most profitable tool because it pinpoints leaks in all vehicle systems. Visual confirmation helps you sell these repair jobs to your customers. The new, OEM-approved Smoke Pro is now compatible with either nitrogen or shop air.

Auto Service Professional magazine's goal is to "give back" to our service community, providing this token aid to shops that are deserving of a temporary boost to get back on their feet.

As the saying goes, "any little bit helps."

Any repair facility interested in inquiring about our helping hand program should call Auto

Service Professional Editor Mike Mavrigian at (330) 435-6347, or e-mail him at mike.mavrigian@bobit.com.

We take care of our own. ●

Redline Smoke Pro